As a kid, we strive to finish a simple puzzle. As we got older, we strived for more challenging puzzles. Whenever we completed one, we always felt success. Growing up is just like puzzles, getting more and more difficult along the way, and can be exciting and successful. In both life and puzzles, you decide the number of pieces to completion.

In our lives we will meet thousands of people; many have one purpose and will be nothing to you ever again. When you are one of these single purpose people, try and prove to the world that you are more than just that.

To all who have supported me, thank you

Nathan Moran

Thanks to those who through my life showed me the greatness of work and the need to play who would only let me turn out to be the person who walks the Earth today. All I want out of my little life will be to repay all of those who were kind, make my Nana happy and someday see me have my own life and some peace of mind.
Thanks to all those who took time to care.

Since the beginning of school, I've been told, families and friends are eight thousand four hundred and eighty-seven times more valuable than gold. Everybody will be missed dearly; but in my mind, all our good memories will be remembered so clearly. To all my friends that are close at heart, in the future, we will never be too far apart.

Sue Li Moy

This is to all my friends (you know who you are).
Elizabeth, can you believe it's been four years!?
I'm going to miss you all so much, but we'll still get to hang out during our vacations! What am I going to do without you guys? I don't know what else to say, except thank you all for everything and that I love you guys.
Keep in touch.

Freshman year, extremely challenging
New people, new faces, terrifying
After that, there was nothing to it.
4 years later, I'm a graduate.
Dreams & fantasies assured with this degree.
But most notably are my memories.
Total strangers became my close friends.
Significant, they mean everything.
Will they eventually become distant again?
Is graduating the end or just the beginning?

Description:

The Knowledge Masters Open is a challenging 200-question test that requires higher level thinking skills in 14 curriculum areas. This can be a fairly grueling event, and team members may be alternated periodically. Teams have two chances to answer each question. If the correct answer is given on the first try, five points are awarded- PLUS, bonus points based on the speed of the response are earned. On the second try, just two points are awarded for the correct answer and no bonus points are possible. No points are deducted for incorrect guesses. The students may use only pencils and paper during the competition.

Yearbook

Editors and Managers:

Description:

The Yearbook staff creates, puts together, and edits the yearbook pages. First, we decide what goes on which page and where. After this, we create the layout of each page. Then, the selection process and manual labor begins, in which we choose pictures and type descriptions. When all is done, everything is put together. Next, the pages are edited. Finally, they are sent out to the plant to be processed. In the end, what we hope to be a successful yearbook is published and distributed.

Renaissance

Advisors:

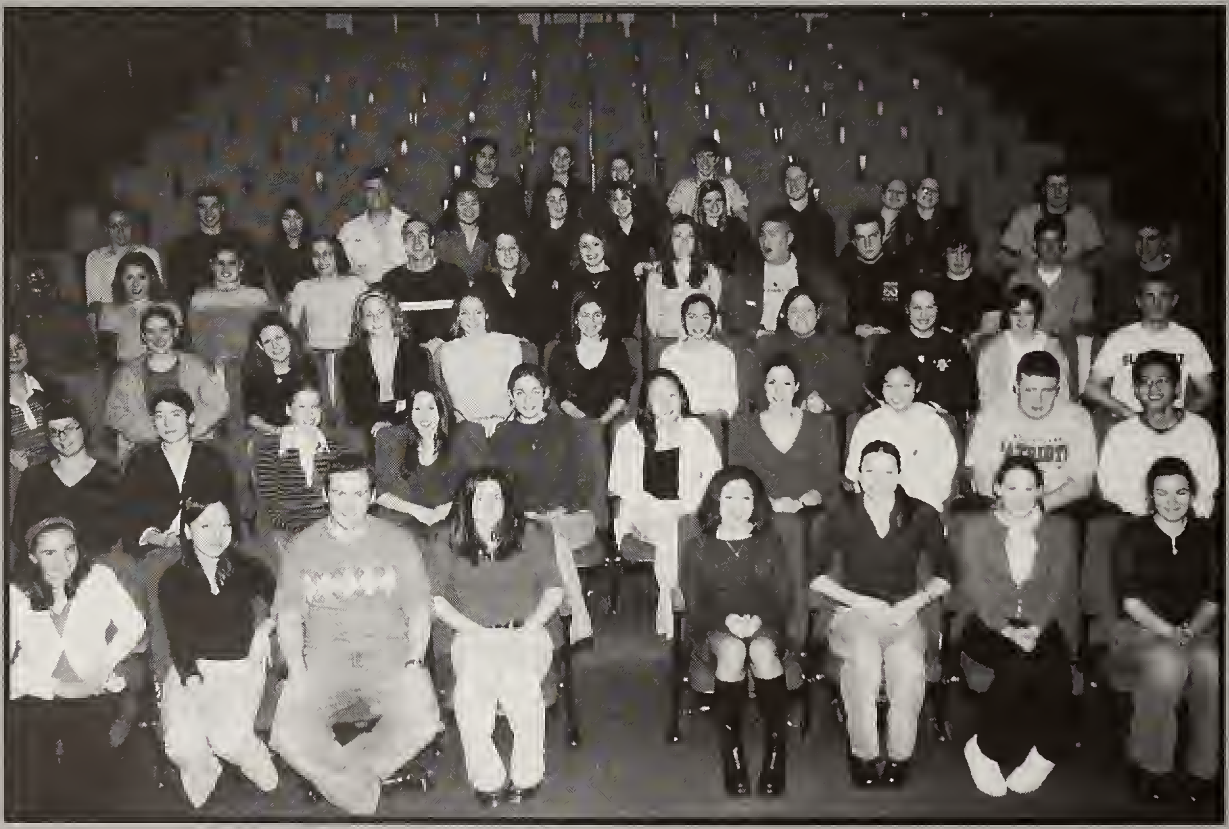
Description:

Renaissance is a fully integrated creative arts program consisting of a major and a minor.

The goal of the Renaissance program is to provide an environment for talented and gifted learners who possess unique gifts and who need to be challenged creatively, intellectually, emotionally and physically. To attain this goal, the program will explore, recognize, and accomodate all of the factors that contribute to students' diverse learning styles.

Students involved in the program will learn to pursue long-term goals, to take risks, and to understand the relationship between work and mastery. By learning to work in groups, students will develop positive self-identification, problem-solving skills, and inter-personal relationships. By providing challenges for talented students, the Renaissance program will allow students to further develop their imagination through study in the fields of art, dance, theatre, music (voice and instrument), and photography.



Dance

Students will be exposed to a variety of dance forms including ballet, tap, jazz, and theatre dance. Basic dance and movement skills will be utilized which will result in the performance of an original piece as a final project. Dance majors and minors will participate in the mid-year and final productions. As a supplement to their studio work, students will study the history of dance. Material presented will range from tribal and folk dance to 20th Century America.

Photography

The objective of Renaissance photography is to expand the student's photographic ability, interest, and awareness. Photography is a portfolio course. The students will choose a specific photographic topic to explore for the entire semester then submit lab and research work for final critique. It is the student's responsibility to submit a proposal to the instructor by the end of the first week of class for review, direction, and approval. It is also the student's responsibility to share his/her work- in- progress for assistance and instruction. There is a history component to this course. The student's portfolio and projects will demonstrate how well goals have been accomplished in the stated proposal.

Art

Students will study advanced art concepts and techniques through a variety of media, with a concentration on oil painting. The incorporation of art history, art interpretation and art appreciation will give them the frameworks for developing a mastery of the field. A solid, well-rounded portfolio is a goal of the program and all seniors are required to present one completed in slide form. Students will develop the ability to talk about their own work and the work of others in an open forum.

Theatre Arts

The Theatre program emphasizes both dramatic performance and the history of theatre. Students will be exposed to a variety of performance techniques and apply their skills to the presentation of monologues, scenes and short plays. In the process, students will develop self confidence, and skills in critical viewing and text analysis. They will be encouraged to explore classical, Shakespearean and contemporary literary pieces and performance styles. Students also have the opportunity to attend and evaluate professional theatrical productions.

Applied Music ~ Instruments & Voice

Students will study music theory, composition, analysis, history and appreciation, and apply them to their major instrument and voice. Private instrument, including piano and voice instruction, will be given weekly to each student. Voice majors will be trained in correct breathing, enunciation techniques, and will perform varied repertoire. Master classes in musical performance will be offered throughout the year. All students are expected to participate in the mid-year and final festivals.

Life is one of the most amazing and complex things on this earth. Each of us is granted a few short years to do the best we can with what we have. We often find ourselves using strategy, planning our every move to make the most of each day. This is a most wonderful idea because each minute that passes, each time the sun sets, you have a chance to truly make it special. The game of life is similar to that of chess, each piece has a job, a function that provides protection and could possibly change the entire outcome of a game. This morning at 6:38 my father played his final move, unfortunately he was in check and was mated. It is now our turn to play a game, I beg you, choose your moves carefully, for each choice has a consequence but the potential for a great win can overcome those obstacles. In memory of a game well played.

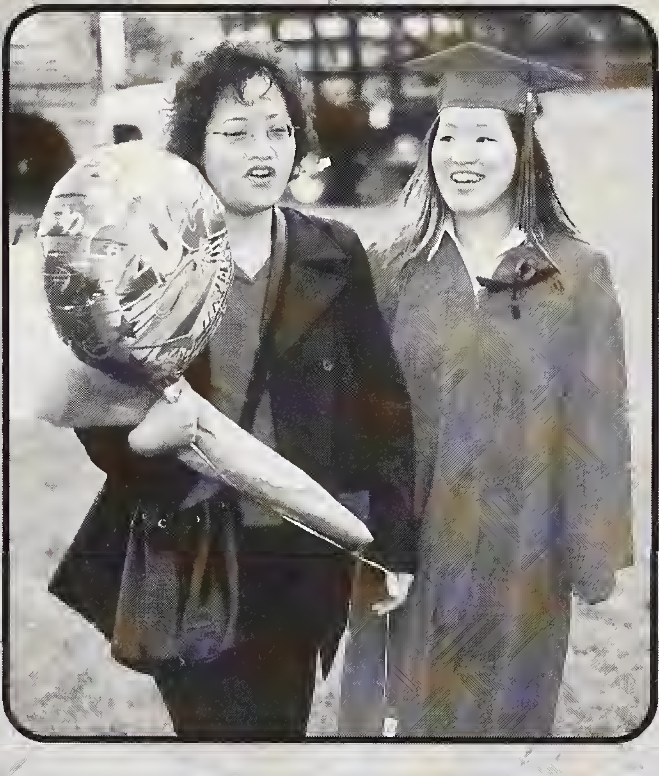
CONGRATULATIONS GRADS



We would like to thank all those who helped make this book possible. To our advisors: Mrs. Debbie Golden, Mr. Arthur Bertoni, and Mrs. Peg Walker, thank you for all your time and effort. We couldn't have done it without your guidance. To our managers: Jeff Hunt, Carolyn King, Michelle Mattson, Kate McGue, Meghan McLean, Greg Sommers, Troy Tower, and Ky Vu, thank you for all your hard work. To our successors: Ashley Golden, Sheila Jafarzadeh, and Lisa Rubino, we hope you've learned much and we hope you have great success with your yearbook. And to the faculty and staff of North Quincy High School, thank you for all your time and patience. Finally, to the rest of the senior class of 2002, what would this book be without you? Your efforts, your help, and your time have made the book you have today. This is your book, with your memories, your ideas, and your support. We hope this book brings back tears of joy as you remember your cherished high school years and tears of sorrow as your hopefully are saddened by these missed years.

We apologize for anyone or anything left out and especially for any misspelled names. We, however, do not apologize for any embarrassing moments or outrageously funny pictures because they symbolize your years at North Quincy High School. They represent what everyone hopes to remember about you. Life is full of mistakes and the lessons that come with them. And everyone is perfect in his or her own little way.

As we complete this book, we reflect upon our high school years. And we have only one question: What do you remember??
